Course Description
The closing years of the eighteenth and the beginning of the nineteenth century saw some of the most innovative, radical and influential writing in the history of German literature and philosophy. In the stories, novels and poems of the Romantic period, but also in their theoretical writings, a generation gave expression to the sense of giddiness, awe and inspiration caused by a rapidly changing world. Modern life required a modern form of expression, and the Romantics wanted to do everything they could to find this form. This seminar follows them on their encounters with modernity.

Our work in class will be shaped by class discussions, group work, and occasional lectures.
Assignments and discussions will be in German.

Course Objectives
The primary objectives of this course are to introduce students to major developments in German Romanticism as they are reflected in works of German literature, philosophy, and art, to enhance students’ ability to analyze and interpret texts, and to improve students’ written and spoken German. A particular focus of this course is on academic writing in German.

Course Requirements Attendance and participation (15%): Regular attendance is mandatory. Absences will only be excused according to University regulations: for example, religious holidays, serious accidents or ilness (medical note required), and serious family circumstances (written documentation required). Please notify me at least a week in advance in case you know you need to miss class.

In addition to excused absences each student may have one (1) unexcused absence. Each unexcused absence after the first will result in a reduction of the final grade. Besides regular attendance, your participation represents a substantial part of your final grade. I expect you to come to class in time, having completed all the readings and assignments. You must bring to class a copy of the assigned text. You are responsible for contributing to and stimulating a meaningful exchange of ideas. You will be graded according to quality and frequency of your participation.

A short note: as mentioned above, the class will be conducted in German. However, don’t be shy because you think your German is not perfect. It’s much better to make mistakes than to say nothing. We will help each other to find the right words and structures!

Blackboard contributions (5%): You will need to read the assigned texts and to contribute on Blackboard’s “Discussion Board” in preparation for class. (Please make yourself familiar with Blackboard, if you do not know the portal yet: https://portal.utoronto.ca) I will provide study questions and tasks related to the reading assignments, to which you can refer in your Blackboard contribution. However, unless otherwise indicated, you can write on any aspect or question of the text which seems interesting to you. You are expected to read your classmates’ contributions. Your work on Blackboard will help you to practice your written German and to participate in class. Blackboard contributions will be marked with 0 or 1. As long as your contribution is formulated in German, directly related to the assigned text/task, has the required length and is submitted in time, you will earn 1 point. You can miss one (1) of these assignments without penalties. Blackboard contributions are due Mondays, 5 PM. No late work will be accepted.

Artwork presentation (15%): You will give a presentation on an artwork of the Romantic period of your choice (suggestions will be made). Detailed criteria will follow. To make the process as fair as possible, we will decide on who will present when via lottery in the beginning of the semester. You are committed to the assigned date and you cannot change it except for the official reasons mentioned above. The artwork which you choose for your presentation should be discussed with me at least one week in advance. The presentation will be graded for content as well as presentation skills.

Project Proposal (15%): For this assignment, you will present the project which you will discuss in your final essay. The project proposal contains two parts: an abstract and a bibliography. Detailed criteria will follow. Check course program for exact date.

Essay Draft (20%): In preparation of your final essay, you will write an essay draft. You will receive detailed feedback on this draft which you are expected to incorporate in the final version of your essay. Detailed criteria will follow. Check course program for exact date.

Final Essay (30%): Building on your work in the project proposal and the essay draft, you will write the final essay. Detail criteria will follow. See the course program for exact date.

A note on missed or late work: you can only obtain credit for your work if the absence or delay is related to reasons for excused absences as defined above. Except for emergencies, all excuses for missing an exam or for late assignments must be discussed with me before the exam or due date. Except for emergencies, I will NOT accept excuses given after the exam or due date. An unexcused late assignment or missed exam will result in a zero.

Avoidance of Academic Offenses
Academic integrity is one of the cornerstones of the University of Toronto. It is critically important both to maintain our community which honours the values of honesty, trust, respect, fairness and responsibility and to protect you, the students within this community, and the value of the degree towards which you are all working so diligently. According to Section B of the University of Toronto’s Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters (http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies/behaveac.htm) which all students are expected to know and respect, it is an offence for students knowingly: to forge or in any other way alter or falsify any document or evidence required by the University, or to utter, circulate or make use of any such forged, altered or falsified document, whether the record be in print or electronic form; to use or possess an unauthorized aid or aids or obtain unauthorized assistance in any academic examination or term test or in connection with any other form of academic work; to personate another person, or to have another person personate, at any academic examination or term test or in connection with any other form of academic work; to represent as one’s own any idea or expression of an idea or work of another in any academic examination or term test or in connection with any other form of academic work, i.e. to commit plagiarism; to submit, without knowledge and approval of the instructor to whom it is submitted, any academic work for which credit has previously been obtained or is being sought in another course or program of study in the University or elsewhere; to submit any academic work containing a purported statement of fact or reference to a source which has been concocted. Please respect these rules and the values which they protect.

Accessibility Needs
The University of Toronto is committed to accessibility. If you require accommodations for a disability, or have any accessibility concerns about the course, the classroom or course materials,
